Draft

Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the European Protection Order

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 82(1)(a) and (d) thereof,

Having regard to the initiative of the Kingdom of Belgium, the Republic of Bulgaria, the Republic of Estonia, the Kingdom of Spain, the French Republic, the Italian Republic, the Republic of Hungary, the Republic of Poland, the Portuguese Republic, Romania, the Republic of Finland and the Kingdom of Sweden,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure <sup>1</sup>,

Whereas <sup>2</sup>:

- (1) The European Union has set itself the objective of maintaining and developing an area of freedom, security and justice.
- (2) Article 82(1) of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU) provides that judicial cooperation in criminal matters in the Union shall be based on the principle of mutual recognition of judgments and judicial decisions.

- (3) According to the Stockholm programme, adopted by the European Council at its meeting on 10 and 11 December 2009, mutual recognition could extend to all types of judgments and decisions of a judicial nature, which may, depending on the legal system, be either criminal or administrative. The programme also points out that victims of crime can be offered special protection measures which should be effective within the Union.
- (4) The resolution of the European Parliament of 2 February 2006 on the current situation in combating violence against women and any future actions recommends that Member States formulate a zero-tolerance policy as regards all forms of violence against women and calls on Member States to take appropriate measures to ensure better protection of and support to actual and potential victims.
- (5) In a common area of justice without internal borders, it is necessary to ensure that the protection provided to a person in one Member State is maintained and continued in any other Member State to which the person moves or has moved. It should also be ensured that the legitimate exercise by citizens of the Union of their right to move and reside freely within the territory of Member States, in accordance with Article 3(2) of the Treaty on European Union (TEU) and Article 21 of the TFEU, does not result in a loss of their security.
- (6) In order to attain these objectives, this Directive should set out rules whereby the protection stemming from a protection measure adopted according to the law of one Member State ("the issuing State") can be extended to another Member State to which the protected person moves ("the executing State"), regardless of the type or duration of the obligations or prohibitions contained in the protection measure concerned.
- (6bis) This Directive applies to protection measures which aim at protecting a person against an act or behaviour of another person which may endanger his life, physical, psychological and sexual integrity, e.g. by preventing any form of harassment, as well as his personal liberty, e.g. by preventing abductions, stalking and other forms of indirect coercion, and aiming at avoiding new acts of crime or at reducing the consequences of previous acts of crime. This Directive is intended to apply to protection measures issued in favour of victims, or possible victims, of crimes; it should not apply to measures issued with a view to protecting witnesses.

- (6ter) For the application of this Directive, a protection measure may have been imposed following a judgment, as defined by Article 2 of Council Framework Decision 2008/947/JHA of 27 November 2008 on the application of the principle of mutual recognition to judgments and probation decisions with a view to the supervision of probation measures and alternative sanctions<sup>1</sup>, or following a decision on supervision measures as defined in Article 4 of Council Framework Decision 2009/829/JHA of 23 October 2009 on the application, between Member States of the European Union, of the principle of mutual recognition to decisions on supervision measures as an alternative to provisional detention<sup>2</sup>.
- (7) In order to prevent a crime or new crime being committed against the victim in the executing State, that State should be given a legal basis for recognising the decision previously adopted in the issuing State in favour of the victim, while also avoiding the need for the victim to start new proceedings or to produce the evidence in the executing State again as if the issuing State had not adopted the decision. The recognition of the European protection order by the executing State implies inter alia that the competent authority of that State, subject to the limitations set out in this Directive, accepts the existence and validity of the protection measure adopted in the issuing State, acknowledges the factual situation described in the European protection order, and agrees that protection should be provided and should be continued to be provided.
- (8) This Directive should be applied and enforced in such a way that the protected person receives the same or equivalent protection in the executing State as he would have received if the protection measure had been issued in that State ab initio, thus avoiding any discrimination.

- (8bis) 'Criminal matters' within the meaning of Article 82 TFEU should be interpreted autonomously, i.e. not necessarily by exclusive reference to the national laws and legal systems of the Member States. Such an autonomous interpretation is capable of securing that legislative acts, adopted on the basis of Article 82 TFEU, have full efficacy and uniform application throughout the Union. In this respect, the authority which takes a decision should not be decisive, but rather the nature of the act giving rise to the decision and the nature of the decision itself. <sup>1</sup>
- (8ter) The European protection order and the protection measure underlying the European protection order have the objective of safeguarding the protected person against behaviour of another person which may endanger his or her life, physical or psychological integrity, personal liberty or sexual integrity. These personal rights correspond to fundamental values recognised and upheld in all Member States to the effect that in all Member States acts or behaviour endangering or violating those rights constitute criminal offences and are punishable by severe penalties. Decisions establishing or validating protection measures serving the objective of providing safeguard against such offences therefore concern, in their essence, "criminal matters" within the meaning of Article 82 TFEU.
- (8quarter) It follows that this Directive should apply to all types of decisions adopted in criminal matters, independent from the nature – criminal, civil or administrative – of the judicial or equivalent authority that adopts the decision concerned, be it in the context of criminal proceedings or in the context of any other proceedings with regard to an act or behaviour of a person which may endanger the life, physical or psychological integrity, personal liberty or sexual integrity of another person.

(8quinquies) Since in the Member States different kinds of authorities (criminal or civil) are competent to issue and enforce protection measures, it seems appropriate to provide a high degree of flexibility in the cooperation mechanism between the Member States under this Directive. Following receipt of a European protection order, the executing Member State, while under a generic obligation to act, should be allowed to give effect to this order in the way which is most appropriate in the light of its own legal system. This may imply that the measure adopted in the executing State is conceptually and legally independent from the original protection measure taken by the issuing Member State and underlying the European protection order.

(8sexies) This Directive contains a closed number of obligations or prohibitions which, when imposed in the issuing State and contained in the European protection order, should be recognised and enforced in the executing State, subject to the limitations set out in this Directive. The competent authority in the executing State does not in all cases have to take the same protection measure as adopted in the issuing State, but it has discretion to adopt any measure which it finds adequate and appropriate under its national law in order to provide continued protection to the protected person in the light of the protection measure adopted in the issuing State and as described in the European protection order. In some cases, it may not be necessary for the competent authority in the executing State to take any measure at all, but it should merely report any breach of the protection measure described in the European protection order.

(8septies) The competent authority of the executing State should inform the person causing danger, the competent authority of the issuing State and the protected person of any measure taken on the basis of the European protection order. In the notification of the person causing danger due regard should be taken to the interest of the protected person of not having his/her address or other contact details disclosed. Such details should be excluded from the notification, provided that the address or other contact detail is not comprised in the obligation or prohibition imposed as an enforcement measure on the person causing danger.

(8octies) When the competent authority in the issuing State has withdrawn the European protection order, the competent authority in the executing State should end the measures which it has adopted in order to enforce the European protection order, it being understood that the competent authority in the executing State may - autonomously, of its own motion - adopt any protection measure under its national law in order to protect the person concerned.

(8novies) When implementing this Directive, Member States should consider putting in place procedures allowing the hearing of the protected person and the person causing danger before recognising and enforcing a European Protection Order, as well as legal remedies against decisions to recognise and enforce a European Protection Order.

- (9) Given that this Directive deals with situations in which the protected person moves to another Member State, executing its provisions does not imply any transfer to the executing State of powers relating to principal, suspended, alternative, conditional or secondary penalties, or relating to security measures imposed on the person causing danger, if the latter continues to reside in the State that issued the protection measure.
- (10) Where appropriate, it should be possible to use electronic means with a view to putting into practice the measures adopted in application of this Directive, in accordance with national laws and procedures.
- (11) Since the objective of this Directive, namely to protect persons who are in danger, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States acting unilaterally, given the cross-border nature of the situations involved, and could instead, due to the scale and potential effects, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as referred to in Article 5(3) of the TEU. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in Article 5(4) of the TEU, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve that objective.
- (12) This Directive should contribute to the protection of persons who are in danger, thereby complementing but not affecting the instruments already in place in this field, such as Council Framework Decision 2008/947/JHA and Council Framework Decision 2009/829/JHA.

- (13) Personal data processed when implementing this Framework Decision should be protected in accordance with Council Framework Decision 2008/977/JHA of 27 November 2008 on the protection of personal data processed in the framework of police and judicial cooperation in criminal matters <sup>1</sup> and in accordance with the principles laid down in the Council of Europe Convention of 28 January 1981 for the Protection of Individuals with regard to Automatic Processing of Personal Data, which all Member States have ratified.
- (14) This Directive should respect the fundamental rights, as guaranteed by the Charter on Fundamental Rights of the European Union and by the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, in conformity with Article 6 of the TEU,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

<sup>1</sup> OJ L 350, 30.12.2008, p. 60.

Designation of competent authorities

1. Each Member State shall inform the Commission which judicial or equivalent authority or authorities are competent under its national law to issue a European protection order and to recognise such an order, in accordance with this Directive, when that Member State is the issuing State or the executing State.
2. (deleted in view of change made in paragraph 1)

1. Each Member State may designate a central authority or, where its legal system so provides, more than one central authority to assist its competent authorities.
2. A Member State may, if it is necessary as a result of the organisation of its internal judicial system, make its central authority(ies) responsible for the administrative transmission and reception of any European protection order, as well as for all other official correspondence relating thereto. ### Article 5

Issue of a European protection order

1. A European protection order may be issued when the protected person decides to leave or has left the issuing State for another Member State. When deciding upon the advisability to issue a European protection order, the competent authority in the issuing State shall take into account, inter alia, the length of time for which the protected person envisages to stay in the executing State and the seriousness of the need for protection.
2. A judicial authority of the issuing State, or another competent authority referred to in Article 3(2), may issue a European protection order only at the request of the protected person and after verifying that the protection measure meets all the requirements set out in Article 4.
3. The protected person may submit a request for issuing a European protection order either to the competent authority of the issuing State or to the competent authority of the executing State. If such a request is submitted in the executing State, its competent authority shall transfer this request as soon as possible to the competent authority of the issuing State.
4. The authority shall advise the protected person to submit the application before leaving the territory of the issuing State.

5. If the protected person has a guardian or legal representative, that person may introduce the request referred to in paragraph 1a and 2 on behalf of the protected person. Article 7

Transmission procedure

1. Where the competent authority of the issuing State transmits the European protection order to the competent authority of the executing State, it shall do so by any means which leaves a written record so as to allow the competent authority of the executing Member State to establish its authenticity. All official communication shall also be made directly between the said competent authorities.
2. If the competent authority of either the executing or the issuing State is not known to the competent authority of the other State, the latter authority shall make all the relevant enquiries, including via the contact points of the European Judicial Network created by the Council Joint Action 98/428/JHA of 29 June 1998 on the creation of a European Judicial Network <sup>1</sup>, the National Member of Eurojust or the National System for the coordination of Eurojust of its State, in order to obtain the required information.

Article 8

Measures in the executing State

1. Upon receipt of a European protection order transmitted in accordance with Article 7, the competent authority of the executing State shall recognise that order and take all measures that would be available under its national law in a similar case (...) in order to ensure the protection of the protected person, unless it decides to invoke one of the grounds for non-recognition referred to in Article 9.
2. The competent authority of the executing State shall inform the person causing danger, the competent authority of the issuing State and the protected person of any measures taken in application of paragraph 1 (...), avoiding, where appropriate, to disclose the address or other contact details concerning the protected person which might expose him to danger.
3. If the competent authority in the executing State considers that the information transmitted with the European protection order according to Article 6 is incomplete, it shall without delay inform the issuing authority by any means which leaves a written record, assigning a term for the issuing authority to provide the missing information.

  - (b) the requirements set out in Article 4 have not been met.
3. Where giving effect to a European protection order in the executing State implies that measures are to be taken in the context of criminal proceedings, the competent authority of the executing State may also refuse to recognise a European protection order in the following circumstances:
  - (a) the protection derives from the execution of a penalty or measure that is covered by amnesty according to the law of the executing State and relates to an act or behaviour which falls within its competence according to that law;
  - (b) there is immunity conferred under the law of the executing State on the person causing danger, which makes it impossible to adopt measures on the basis of a European protection order;
  - (c) criminal prosecution against the person causing danger for the act or behaviour in relation to which the protection measure has been adopted is statute-barred under the law of the executing State;
  - (d) recognition of the European protection order would contravene the ne bis in idem principle;
  - (e) under the law of the executing State, the person causing danger cannot, because of his age, be held criminally responsible for the act or behaviour in relation to which the protection measure has been adopted.

1. (...) The law of the executing State applies to the adoption (...) and enforcement of measures taken in that State on the basis of a European protection order.

2. In case of a breach of one or more of the measures taken by the executing State on the basis of a European protection order, the competent authority of the executing State has, in application of paragraph 1, inter alia the following competences:

4. The competent authority of the issuing Member State shall inform without delay the competent authority of the executing Member State of any decision taken in accordance with paragraph 1.
