NOTE

From:	Presidency
To	Permanent Representatives Committee (part2)
Subject:	Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on insider dealing and market manipulation (market abuse) (MAR) - Validation of the provisional agreement with the European Parliament

1. On 25 October 2011 the Commission submitted to the Council the above-mentioned proposal, which aims to increase market integrity and investor protection, while ensuring a single rulebook and level playing field and increasing the attractiveness of securities markets for capital raising. The proposal was accompanied by a proposal for a Directive on criminal sanctions for insider dealing and market manipulation. These two proposals together constitute the review of the current Market Abuse Directive (MAD).
2. The proposed Regulation (MAR) has been examined by the Working Party on Financial Services under the ECOFIN Council, whereas the proposed Directive (MAD) has been examined by the Working Party on Substantive Criminal Law under the JHA Council.

3. The EP ECON Committee voted on its report in October 2012, and the Council agreed on its general approach on MAR in December 2012.
4. Following intensive negotiations with the European Parliament, which were concluded on 20 June 2013 with some technical work thereafter, provisional agreement on MAR has been reached, as set out in the fourth column of the table and the annex attached. This agreement, however, remains subject to a technical alignment following the outcome of the trilogue negotiations on the revised rules for markets in financial instruments (MiFID and MiFIR). This technical alignment relates to the cross references in MAR to MiFID/MiFIR, principally concerning scope and definitions.
5. The Presidency considers that the agreement it has reached with European Parliament is a very balanced one, and meets to a very large extent the positions expressed in the Council's general approach, while making substantial technical improvements across the text. The Presidency also considers that this agreement is acceptable to a very large number of delegations, which represent a strong qualified majority.
6. In these circumstances, the Permanent Representatives Committee (Part II) is invited to:
 - (a) validate the provisional agreement as set out in the fourth column of the table and the annex attached, and
 - (b) confirm that the Presidency can indicate to the European Parliament that, should the European Parliament adopt its position at first reading in the exact form as set out in the fourth column of the table and the annex attached, subject to a future technical alignment following the outcome of the trilogue negotiations on revised rules for markets in financial instruments (MiFID and MiFIR) and to revision by the legal linguists of both institutions, the Council would approve the European Parliament's position and the Act shall be adopted in the wording which corresponds to the European Parliament's position.

(5)	(5) In order to remove the remaining obstacles to trade and significant distortions of competition resulting from divergences between national laws and to prevent any further likely obstacles to trade and significant distortions of competition from arising, it is therefore necessary to adopt a Regulation establishing uniform rules applicable in all Member States. This should ensure uniform conditions by preventing diverging national requirements as a result of the transposition of a directive. This Regulation should entail that all persons follow the same rules in all the Union. 8.	(8)	(8) The scope of Directive 2003/6/EC focused on financial instruments admitted to trading on regulated markets but in recent years financial instruments have been increasingly traded on multilateral trading facilities (MTFs). There are also financial instruments which are only traded on other types of organised trading facilities (OTFs) such as broker crossing systems or only traded over the counter. The scope of this Regulation should therefore be extended to include any financial instrument traded on a MTF or an OTF, as well as financial instruments traded over the counter, such as for example credit default swaps, or any other conduct or action which can have an effect on such a financial instrument traded on a regulated market, MTF or OTF. This should improve investor protection, preserve the integrity of markets and ensure that market manipulation of such instruments through financial instruments traded over the counter is clearly prohibited.	(8) The scope of Directive 2003/6/EC focused on financial instruments admitted to trading on regulated markets or for which a request for admission to trading on such a market had been made. However, in recent years financial instruments have been increasingly traded on multilateral trading facilities (MTFs). A. Indicators of manipulative behaviour related to false or misleading signals and to price securing

For the purposes of applying point (a) of paragraph 1 of Article 8 of this Regulation, and without prejudice to the forms of behaviour set out in paragraph 3 thereof, the following non-exhaustive indicators, which should not necessarily be deemed in themselves to constitute market manipulation, shall be taken into account when transactions or orders to trade are examined by market participants and competent authorities:

- (a) the extent to which orders to trade given or transactions undertaken represent a significant proportion of the daily volume of transactions in the relevant financial instrument, related spot commodity contract, or auctioned product based on emission allowances, in particular when these activities lead to a significant change in their prices;
- (b) the extent to which orders to trade given or transactions undertaken by persons with a significant buying or selling position in a financial instrument, a related spot commodity contract, or a auctioned product based on emission allowances, lead to significant changes in the price of that financial instrument, related spot commodity contract, or auctioned product based on emission allowances;
- (c) whether transactions undertaken lead to no change in beneficial ownership of a financial instrument, a related spot commodity contract, or a auctioned product based on emission allowances;

- (d) the extent to which orders to trade given or transactions undertaken or orders cancelled include position reversals in a short period and represent a significant proportion of the daily volume of transactions in the relevant financial instrument, a related spot commodity contract, or a auctioned product based on emission allowances, and might be associated with significant changes in the price of a financial instrument, a related spot commodity contract, or a auctioned product based on emission allowances;
- (e) the extent to which orders to trade given or transactions undertaken are concentrated within a short time span in the trading session and lead to a price change which is subsequently reversed;
- (f) the extent to which orders to trade given change the representation of the best bid or offer prices in a financial instrument, a related spot commodity contract, or a auctioned product based on emission allowances, or more generally the representation of the order book available to market participants, and are removed before they are executed;
- (g) the extent to which orders to trade are given or transactions are undertaken at or around a specific time when reference prices, settlement prices and valuations are calculated and lead to price changes which have an effect on such prices and valuations.

B. Indicators of manipulative behaviours related to the employment of fictitious devices or any other form of deception or contrivance

For the purposes of applying point (b) of paragraph 1 of Article 8 of this Regulation, and without prejudice to the forms of behaviour set out in the second paragraph of point 3 thereof, the following non-exhaustive indicators, which should not necessarily be deemed in themselves to constitute market manipulation, shall be taken into account when transactions or orders to trade are examined by market participants and competent authorities:

- (a) whether orders to trade given or transactions undertaken by persons are preceded or followed by dissemination of false or misleading information by the same persons or persons linked to them;
 - (b) whether orders to trade are given or transactions are undertaken by persons before or after the same persons or persons linked to them produce or disseminate investment recommendations which are erroneous or biased or demonstrably influenced by material interest.
