'I' ITEM NOTE

From:	Presidency
To:	Permanent Representatives Committee
No. Cion doc.:	10940/17 + ADD 1
No. prev. doc.:	15534/18
Subject:	Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing a centralised system for the identification of Member States holding conviction information on third country nationals and stateless persons (TCN) to supplement and support the European criminal records information system (ECRIS-TCN system) and amending Regulation (EU) No. 1077/2011 - Confirmation of the final compromise text with a view to agreement

1. On 28 June 2017, the Commission submitted a proposal for a Regulation establishing a centralised system for the identification of Member States holding conviction information on third country nationals and stateless persons (TCN) to supplement and support the European Criminal Records Information System (ECRIS-TCN system) and amending Regulation (EU) No 1077/2011 (10940/17 + ADD 1).
2. The Council reached a general approach on the draft text under Estonian Presidency in December 2017 (15448/17).

3. The LIBE Committee of the European Parliament adopted its report with draft amendments on 25 January 2018 (5727/18). On this basis, the Bulgarian Presidency and subsequently the Austrian Presidency, acting on behalf of the Council, conducted trilogue negotiations with the European Parliament and the Commission with a view to reaching an agreement in first reading.
4. On 11 December 2018, a provisional agreement was reached at the fifth trilogue, which resulted in the final compromise text set out in the Annex to this note.
5. In the light of the above, the Permanent Representatives Committee is invited to:
 - a) approve the final compromise text regarding the Regulation on ECRIS-TCN as set out in the Annex to this note; and
 - b) confirm that the Presidency can indicate to the European Parliament that, should the European Parliament at first reading adopt its position concerning the Regulation as set out in the Annex to this note, subject, if necessary, to revision of this text by the lawyer-linguists of both institutions, the Council would approve the European Parliament's position and the act shall be adopted in the wording which corresponds to the European Parliament's position.

(text as agreed 'ad referendum' during the 5th trilogue on 11 December 2018 in Strasbourg)

establishing a centralised system for the identification of Member States holding conviction information on third country nationals and stateless persons (TCN) to supplement and support the European Criminal Records Information System (ECRIS-TCN system) and amending Regulation (EU) No 1077/2011

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty of the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 82(1)(d) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the European Commission,

After transmission of the draft legislative act to the national parliaments,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

Whereas:

- (1) The Union has set itself the objective of offering its citizens an area of freedom, security and justice without internal frontiers, in which the free movement of persons is ensured. This objective should be achieved by means, among others, of appropriate measures to prevent and combat crime, including organised crime and terrorism.

- (2) This objective requires that information on convictions handed down in the Member States be taken into account outside the convicting Member State, both in the course of new criminal proceedings, as laid down in Council Framework Decision 2008/675/JHA¹, as well as in order to prevent new offences.
- (3) This objective presupposes the exchange of information extracted from criminal records between the competent authorities of the Member States. Such an exchange of information is organised and facilitated by the rules set out in Council Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA² and by the European Criminal Records Information System (ECRIS) which has been established by Council Decision 2009/316/JHA³.
- (4) The existing ECRIS legal framework, however, does not sufficiently address the particularities of requests concerning third country nationals. Although it is already possible to exchange information on third country nationals through ECRIS, there is no common Union procedure or mechanism in place to do so efficiently, rapidly and accurately.
- (5) Information on third country nationals is not gathered within the Union in the Member State of nationality as it is for nationals of Member States, but only stored in the Member States where the convictions have been handed down. A complete overview of the criminal history of a third country national can therefore be ascertained only if such information is requested from all Member States.

² Council Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA of 26 February 2009 on the organisation and content of the exchange of information extracted from the criminal record between Member States (OJ L 93, 7.4.2009, p. 23).

³ Council Decision 2009/316/JHA of 6 April 2009 on the establishment of the European Criminal Records Information System (ECRIS) in application of Article 11 of Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA (OJ L 93, 7.4.2009, p. 33).

- (6) Such 'blanket requests' impose a disproportionate administrative burden on all Member States, including those not holding information on that third country national. In practice, this burden deters Member States from requesting information on third country nationals from other Member States, which seriously hinders its exchange between Member States, limiting the criminal record information to information stored in their national register. As a consequence, the risk of information exchange between Member States being inefficient and incomplete is increased, which in turn affects the level of security and safety provided to citizens and persons residing within the Union.
- (7) To improve the situation, a system should be established by which the central authority of a Member State can find out promptly and efficiently which other Member State or Member States hold criminal record information on a third country national. The existing ECRIS framework could then be used to request the criminal record information from that Member State or those Member States in accordance with Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA.
- (8) This Regulation should therefore lay down rules on creating a centralised system containing personal data at the level of the Union, the division of responsibilities between the Member State and the organisation responsible for its development and maintenance, as well as any specific data protection provisions needed to supplement the existing data protection arrangements and provide for an adequate overall level of data protection, data security and the protection of the fundamental rights of the persons concerned.
- (8a) The objective of offering to citizens of the Union an area of freedom, security and justice without internal frontiers, in which the free movement of persons is ensured, requires that information on convictions is complete also with regard to citizens of the Union who also hold the nationality of a third country. Given the possibility that these persons present themselves with one or several nationalities, and different convictions are stored in the Member States where the convictions have been handed down or in the Member State of nationality, in order to create a reliable system it is necessary to include citizens of the Union who also hold the nationality of a third country in the scope of this Regulation. The exclusion of these persons would jeopardise the reliability of the system, making it incomplete by definition. However, since such persons hold Union citizenship, the conditions under which fingerprint data can be included in the ECRIS-TCN system with regard to these persons should be comparable to the conditions under which fingerprint data are exchanged between Member States with respect to citizens of the Union under the ECRIS system established by Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA. Therefore, in respect of citizens of the Union who also hold the nationality of a third country, fingerprints should only be included in the ECRIS-TCN system when they have been collected in accordance with national law during criminal proceedings, it being understood that for such inclusion Member States should be able to use fingerprints collected for purposes other than criminal proceedings, where such use is permitted under national law.

- (8b) The ECRIS-TCN system allows processing of fingerprint data with the aim of identifying the Member State or Member States in possession of criminal records information on a third country national and of facial images in order to confirm their identity. The introduction and use of fingerprint data and facial images must never exceed what is strictly necessary to achieve the aim, must respect fundamental rights, as well as the best interests of children, and must be in conformity with applicable Union data protection rules.
- (9) The European Agency for the operational management of large-scale IT systems in the area of freedom, security and justice (eu-LISA) established by Regulation (EU) No 1077/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴ should be entrusted with the task of developing and operating the new centralised ECRIS-TCN system to identify the Member State(s) holding information on previous convictions of third country nationals ('ECRIS-TCN system'), given its experience with managing other large scale systems in the area of justice and home affairs. Its mandate should be amended to reflect these new tasks.
- (9a) eu-LISA should be equipped with the appropriate funding and staffing to exercise the responsibilities provided for under this Regulation.

- (10) Given the need to create close technical links between the ECRIS-TCN system and the current ECRIS system, eu-LISA should also be entrusted with the task of further developing and maintaining the ECRIS reference implementation, and its mandate should be amended to reflect this.
- (10a) Four Member States have developed their own ECRIS national implementation software in accordance with Art. 3 of Council Decision 2009/316/JHA, and have been using it instead of the ECRIS reference implementation to exchange criminal records information. In this light, and given the particular features that these Member States have introduced in their systems for national use and the investments that they have made, they should be allowed to continue using their national implementation software also for the purposes of the ECRIS-TCN system, provided that the conditions set out in this Regulation are respected.
- (11) The ECRIS-TCN system should contain only the identity information of third country nationals convicted by a criminal court within the Union. Such identity information should include alphanumeric and fingerprint data. Facial images could also be included in as far as the national law of the Member State where a conviction is handed down allows for the collection and storage of facial images of a convicted person.
- (11a) The alphanumeric data to be included by the Member States in the Central System should inter alia comprise the surname (family name) and the first name(s) (given names) of the person concerned, as well as, where available to the central authority, the pseudonym and/or alias name(s) of that person. If other deviating personal data, such as a different spelling of a name in another alphabet, are known to the Member State concerned, such data could be included in the Central System as additional information.
- (11b) The alphanumeric data should also include, as additional information, the identity number, or the type and number of the person's identification document(s), as well as the name of the issuing authority thereof, where such information is available to the central authority. The Member State should seek to verify the authenticity of identification documents before entering the relevant information in the central system. In any case, given that such information could be unreliable, it should be used cautiously.

(11^{c1}) The central authorities of the Member States should use the ECRIS-TCN system to identify the Member State(s) holding criminal record information on a third country national when criminal records information on that person is requested in the Member State concerned for the purposes of criminal proceedings against that person or for the purposes referred to in this Regulation if provided under and in accordance with national law. While the ECRIS-TCN system should in principle be used in all such cases, the authority responsible for conducting the criminal proceedings may decide that the ECRIS-TCN system should not be used when this would not be appropriate in the circumstances of the case, e.g. in certain types of urgent criminal proceedings, in cases of transit, when criminal record information was obtained via the ECRIS system recently, or in respect of minor offences, in particular minor traffic offences, minor offences in relation to general municipal regulations and minor public order offences.

(11^{c2}) Member States should also be able to use the ECRIS-TCN system for any purposes other than those set out in this Regulation, if provided under and in accordance with national law. However, in order to enhance the transparency of the use of the ECRIS-TCN system, Member States should notify such other purposes to the European Commission, which should ensure publication of all the notifications in the Official Journal of the European Union.

(11d) Also other authorities requesting criminal record information may decide that the ECRIS-TCN system should not be used when this would not be appropriate in the circumstances of the case, e.g. when certain standard administrative checks need to be carried out regarding the professional qualifications of a person, especially if it is known that criminal records information will not be requested from other Member States, irrespective of the result of the search in ECRIS-TCN. However, the ECRIS-TCN system should always be used when the request for criminal records has been initiated by a person who asks for information on his own criminal record, in application of Article 6(3a) of Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA, or when it is made in order to obtain criminal record information in application of Article 10(2) of Directive 2011/93/EU on combating the sexual abuse and sexual exploitation of children and child pornography, and replacing Council Framework Decision 2004/68/JHA.⁵

- (11e) Third country nationals should have the right to obtain information in writing concerning their own criminal record in accordance with the law of the Member State where they request such information to be provided, and taking into account Council Framework Decision 2009/315/JHA. Before providing such information to a third country national, the Member State concerned should make a search in the ECRIS-TCN system.
- (11f) Citizens of the Union who also hold the nationality of a third country will only be included in the ECRIS-TCN system if the competent authorities are aware that such persons have the nationality of a third country. Where the competent authorities are not aware that citizens of the Union also have the nationality of a third country, it may nevertheless be that such persons have prior convictions as a third country national. In order to ensure that the competent authorities have a complete overview of criminal records, it should be possible to query the ECRIS-TCN system to verify whether, in respect of a citizen of the Union, any Member State holds criminal record information concerning this person as a third country national.
- (12) In the event that there is a match between data recorded in the Central System and those used for search by a Member State (hit), the identity information against which a 'hit' was recorded is provided together with the hit. The result of a search should only be used, as regards the central authorities, for the purpose of making a request through the ECRIS System or, as regards the Union bodies mentioned in this Regulation, for the purpose of making a request for conviction information as referred to in this Regulation.
- (13) In the first instance, facial images included in the ECRIS-TCN system should only be used for the purpose of confirming the identity of a third country national in order to determine the Member State(s) holding information on previous convictions of that third country national. In the future, facial images might be used for automated biometric matching, provided that the technical and policy requirements to do so have been met. The Commission, taking into account the necessity and proportionality as well as the technical developments in the field of facial recognition software, should assess the availability and readiness of the technology before adopting the delegated act concerning the possibility to use facial images for the purpose of identifying third country nationals, in order to determine the Member State(s) holding information on previous convictions concerning such persons.

- (14) The use of biometrics is necessary as it is the most reliable method of identifying third country nationals within the territory of the Member States, who are often not in possession of documents or any other means of identification, as well as for more reliable matching of third country nationals data.
- (14a) Member States should enter in the central system fingerprints of convicted third country nationals that have been collected in accordance with national law during criminal proceedings. In order to have as complete identity information as possible available in the central system, Member States could also insert into the central system fingerprints that have been collected for other purposes than criminal proceedings, where those fingerprints are available for use in criminal proceedings in compliance with national law.
- (14b) This Regulation should establish minimum criteria as regards the fingerprints that Member States should include in the central system. Member States should have a choice: either to insert fingerprints of third country nationals who have received a custodial sentence of at least 6 months, or fingerprints of third country nationals who have been convicted of a criminal offence which is punishable by a custodial sentence of a maximum period of at least 12 months.
- (15) Member States should create records in the ECRIS-TCN system regarding convicted third country nationals. This should be done automatically, where possible, and without undue delay after their conviction was entered into the national criminal record. As from the date of start of entry of data in accordance with this Regulation, Member States should insert alphanumeric data and fingerprints in the central system relating to convictions rendered after that date. As from the same date, and any time thereafter, Member States could insert facial images in the central system.

- (16) Member States should also create records in the ECRIS-TCN system regarding third country nationals convicted prior to the date of start of entry of data, in accordance with this Regulation, in order to ensure the maximum effectiveness of the system. However, for this purpose Member States should not be obliged to collect information which was not already entered into their criminal records prior to the date of start of entry of data in accordance with this Regulation. The fingerprints of third country nationals relating to such prior convictions should be included only where they were collected during criminal proceedings, and where the Member State concerned considers that they can be clearly matched with other identity information in criminal records.
- (17) Improving the circulation of information on convictions should assist Member States in their implementation of Framework Decision 2008/675/JHA, which obliges the Member States to take account of previous convictions in other Member States in the course of new criminal proceedings, to the extent previous national convictions are taken into account in accordance with national law.
- (18) [See recitals 11c1 and 11c2].
- (19) A hit indicated by the ECRIS-TCN system should not automatically mean that the third country national concerned was convicted in the indicated Member State(s). The existence of previous convictions should only be confirmed based on information received from the criminal records of the Member States concerned.
- (20) Notwithstanding the possibility of using the Union's financial programmes in accordance with the applicable rules, each Member State should bear its own costs arising from the implementation, administration, use and maintenance of its criminal records database and national fingerprint databases, and from the implementation, administration, use and maintenance of the technical alterations necessary to be able to use the ECRIS-TCN system, including their connections to the national central access point.

(21) The European Union Agency for Law Enforcement Cooperation (Europol) established by Regulation (EU) 2016/794 of the European Parliament and of the Council⁶, Eurojust established by Council Decision 2002/187/JHA⁷ and the European Public Prosecutor's Office established by Regulation (EU) 2017/1939⁸ should have access to the ECRIS-TCN system for identifying the Member State(s) holding criminal record information on a third country national in order to support their statutory tasks. Eurojust should also have direct access to the ECRIS-TCN system for the purpose of carrying out the task, attributed by this Regulation, to act as contact point for third countries and international organisations, without prejudice to the application of principles of judicial cooperation in criminal matters, including rules on mutual legal assistance. While the position of Member States who are not part of the enhanced cooperation procedure establishing the European Public Prosecutor's Office should be taken into account, the European Public Prosecutor's Office should not be refused access to conviction information on the only ground that the Member State concerned is not part of that enhanced cooperation procedure.

⁸ Council Regulation (EU) 2017/1939 of 12 October 2017 implementing enhanced cooperation on the establishment of the European Public Prosecutor's Office ('the EPPO') (OJ L 283, 31.10.2017, p. 1).

- (22) This Regulation establishes strict access rules to the ECRIS-TCN system and the necessary safeguards, including the responsibility of the Member States in collecting and using the data. It also sets out how individuals may exercise their rights to compensation, access, correction, deletion and redress, in particular the right to an effective remedy and the supervision of processing operations by public independent authorities. It therefore respects the fundamental rights and freedoms and observes the principles recognised in particular by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, including the right to protection of personal data, the principle of equality before the law and the general prohibition of discrimination. In this regard, it also takes into account the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and other human rights obligations under international law.
- (23) Directive (EU) 2016/680 of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁶ should apply to the processing of personal data by competent national authorities for the purposes of the prevention, investigation, detection or prosecution of criminal offences or the execution of criminal penalties, including the safeguarding against and the prevention of threats to public security. Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council²⁷ should apply to the processing of personal data by national authorities when such processing does not fall within the scope of Directive (EU) 2016/680. Coordinated supervision should be ensured in accordance with Article 62 of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725. This Regulation should also apply to the processing of personal data by eu-LISA.⁹
- (23a) In respect of prior convictions, the central authorities should insert alphanumeric data at the latest by the end of the period for entry of data in accordance with this Regulation, and fingerprint data at the latest within two years after the start of operations. Member States could insert all data at the same time, provided these time limits are respected.
- (24) Rules on the liability of the Member States and Union bodies making use of the ECRIS-TCN system in respect to damage arising from any breach of this Regulation should be laid down.

⁹ Text modified following the adoption of Regulation (EU) 2018/1725, to be verified.

- (25) Since the objective of this Regulation, namely to enable the rapid and efficient exchange of accurate criminal record information on third country nationals, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States, but can rather, by putting in place common Union rules, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve that objective.
- (25a) In order to improve the identification of the Member State(s) holding information on previous convictions of third country nationals, the power to adopt acts in accordance with Article 290 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union should be delegated to the Commission in respect of supplementing this Regulation by providing for the use of facial images for the purpose of identifying third country nationals in order to determine the Member State(s) holding information on previous convictions on the basis of this biometric identifier. It is of particular importance that the Commission carry out appropriate consultations during its preparatory work, including at expert level, and that those consultations be conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in the Interinstitutional Agreement of 13 April 2016 on Better Law-Making.¹⁰ In particular, to ensure equal participation in the preparation of delegated acts, the European Parliament and the Council receive all documents at the same time as Member States' experts, and their experts systematically have access to meetings of Commission expert groups dealing with the preparation of delegated acts.
- (26) In order to ensure uniform conditions for the establishment and operational management of the ECRIS-TCN system, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and the Council.¹¹

¹¹ Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and the Council of 16 February 2011 laying down the rules and general principles concerning mechanisms for control by Member States of the Commission's exercise of implementing powers (OJ L 55, 28.2.2011, p.13)

- (26a) Member States should take the necessary measures to comply with this Regulation as soon as possible so as to ensure the proper functioning of the ECRIS-TCN system, taking into account the time that eu-LISA needs to develop and implement the ECRIS-TCN system. However, Member States should have at least 36 months after the entry into force of this Regulation to take the measures to comply with this Regulation.
- (27) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of Protocol No 22 on the position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it or subject to its application.
- (28) In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 and Article 4a(1) of Protocol No 21 on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the area of freedom, security and justice, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and without prejudice to Article 4 of that Protocol, Ireland is not taking part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it or subject to its application.
- (29) In accordance with Article 3 and Article 4a(1) of Protocol No 21 on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the area of freedom, security and justice, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, the United Kingdom has notified its wish to take part in the adoption and application of this Regulation.
- (30) The European Data Protection Supervisor was consulted in accordance with Article 28(2) of Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council ¹² and delivered an opinion on ...¹³,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

¹² Regulation (EC) No 45/2001 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 December 2000 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data by the Community institutions and bodies and on the free movement of such data (OJ L 008, 12.1.2001, p.1).

ARTICLE 4

Technical architecture of the ECRIS-TCN system

1. The ECRIS-TCN system shall be composed of:
 - (a) a Central System where identity information on convicted third country nationals is held;
 - (b) a national central access point in each Member State;
 - (c) Interface Software enabling the connection of the competent authorities to the Central System via the national central access point and the Communication Infrastructure;
 - (d) a Communication Infrastructure between the Central System and the national central access point.
2. The Central System shall be hosted by eu-LISA in its technical sites.
3. The Interface Software shall be integrated with the ECRIS reference implementation. The Member States shall use the ECRIS reference implementation or, in the situation and under the conditions set out in paragraphs 4-8, the national ECRIS implementation software, to query the ECRIS-TCN system, as well as to send subsequent requests for criminal records information.

4. The Member States which use their national ECRIS implementation software shall be responsible for ensuring that their national ECRIS implementation software allows their national criminal records authorities to use the ECRIS-TCN system, with the exception of the Interface Software, in accordance with this Regulation. For that purpose, they shall, before the date of start of operations of the ECRIS-TCN system in accordance with Article 33(5), ensure that their national ECRIS implementation software functions in accordance with the protocols and technical specifications established in the implementing acts referred to in Article 10, and with any further technical requirements based on those acts established by eu-LISA under this Regulation.
5. For as long as they do not use the ECRIS reference implementation Member States which use their national ECRIS implementation software shall also ensure the implementation of any subsequent technical adaptations to their national ECRIS implementation software required by any changes to the technical requirements established through the implementing acts referred to in Article 10, or decided by eu-LISA under this Regulation, without undue delay.
6. The Member States which use their national ECRIS implementation software shall bear all the costs associated with the implementation, maintenance and further development of their national ECRIS implementation software and its interconnection with the ECRIS-TCN system, with the exception of the Interface Software.
